

Libraries Matter

Libraries matter

Without them we would shatter

We could read history

But we would read fun stories

Now we research things online

But one thing we forgot

We still need to read

Libraries matter.

We need to read as words are anywhere and everywhere

Libraries matter.

Without them we would shatter

We could read history

But we would read fun stories

Now we research things online

But one thing we forgot

We still need to read

Libraries matter.

Bio

Corin Acton is an eleven year old boy living in Ogema, he is very interested in piano but a large trait he has is his love to read. He is interested in adventure books, especially long ones. So when he got a chance to show how important books are.

We read to kids to encourage them to read but without libraries that wouldn't happen

